TO THE WOBKING CLASS.—We are now prepared to furnish all classes with constant employment at home, the whole of the time or for the spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50c to $1 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting their whole time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this notice may send their address, and test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To such as are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars, a valuable sample, which will do to commence work on, and a copy of the People's Literary Companion—one of the largest and best family newspapers published—all sent free by mail. Reader, if you want permanent, profitable work address E. C. ALLEN & CO., Augusta, Maine.

LORILLARD'S EUREKA, SMOKING TOBACCO. is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome unslin bags in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S Yacht Club SMOKING TOBACCO. classed by all who consume it as the "finest of all;" it is made of the choicest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for 1st quality Meerschaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourselves it is all it claims to be, "THE FINEST OF ALL."

LORILLARD'S CENTURY, CHEWING TOBACCO. This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing Tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS. have now been in general use in the U. S. over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

EVANS'

Improved Farmer's Adjusting PLOW.

WE the undersigned, have used the above described Plow, and testify that they beat any Plow now in use. You can run from one and a half to five inches deep, with one horse, without the least difficulty; can use any common Plow-Hoe on them from a Subsoil to a Scrape. The EVANS PLOW is the only genuine Adjusting Plow in the United States. For running around Corn and Cotton in the Southern States, they are unsurpassed, and you can break up your lands with them and then cultivate any depth you may want, with any kind of Plow-Hoe. The Plow was patented September 24, 1867, but never presented to the public until recently. Planters will do well to adopt them, as their use is almost equal to fertilizing. They run light in the stock, and are easy to manage.

FARM-YARD SCRAPS.

Plant shade trees.

Take good care of your stock.

Clover is a voracious air feeder.

Soak your corn in Coperas water.

Hemp seed is good food for poultry.

California has a new corn called the Dent.

Elephants are used for plowing in Bombay.

"Kentucky blue grass," makes an excellent lawn.

Feed your crops well if you desire them to thrive and pay you.

Do not pasture your tending land, it is bad economy and impovishes your soil.

Plant largely of sweet potatoes, it is time they were bedded. An old cow pen is the best to plant in.

Mangoes and Tanyah should be planted without delay.

Strawberry beds should be kept free from runners, if you desire fruit rather than an increase of plants. It is better to cut than to pull them off.

We not unfrequently hear farmers complaining that their meadows are sward bound. In the spring, I had a peace of meadow in this condition. Not wishing to plough it up that season, by way of experiment, I harrowed it faithfully, which produced the desired effect. My crop of hay was much larger than the preceding season, owing, I have no doubt, to the application of the harrow.

HINTS FOR FARMERS.

Dig your potatoes when the ground is dry.

Toads are the best protection for cabbage against lice.

Plants when dropping are revived by a few grains of Camphor.

Sulphur is valuable in preserving grapes &c., from insects.

Lard never spoils in warm weather, if it is cooked enough when frying out.

In feeding corn, sixty pounds ground as far as one hundred pounds in the kernel.

Turnips of small size have double the nutritious matter that large ones have.

Rats and other vermin are kept away from grain by a sprinkling of garlic in packing the sheaves.

TRUCK FARMING IN S. C.

The spring cabbage is, perhaps, the most salable and remunerative crop the truck farmer can cultivate.

The potatoe, on the other hand, although largely grown at the South for shipment, can only under the most favorable circumstances of season and cultivation, be made to pay. In the first place, the seed is expensive, the planting troublesome, and large supplies of manure must be provided, if a full crop is hoped for. Harvesting, barreling and hauling add to the outlay. From sixty to eighty barrels to the acre is all which the best lands can produce, $2 50 to $3 00 per barrel is the best price the farmer can obtain. That a succession crop of corn or other produce can be taken after potatoes is an advantage, and the only one.

In planting late corn after potatoes, care should be taken not to strip the fodder, but allow it to dry upon the stalk. If this is done, the ear will be full heavy, and in every way as good as the early plantings; but, on the contrary, if the fodder be taken off, the ear will be light, rotten, and almost worthless.

The green pea if early, is very remunerative, but the late varieties and high growing sorts are of little value to the shipper, and will scarcely pay for gathering—a tedious and expensive process. Early peas and tomatoes go nicely on the same ground, in alternate rows. Remove the peas as soon as possible, and do not wait for gleanings, which at best are hard and worth little. The green pea vines, if cured as fodder, are excellent for stock, and preferred by them to the best hay.

The early Valentine bean is one of the best, if not the very best crop for shipping purposes. The flat kinds, although early and prolific, are unsalable after the Valentines come to market. No vegetable bears transportation better than the bean. It comes from the crate green and fresh looking. The Northern markets take immense quantities of them, and the prices are generally remunerative to the last. The tomato is a profitable crop, the home consumption being large; but they are uncertain when shipped, and go usually not in good order. The Round, Smooth is the best variety; prolific and of fair size. The Tilden is a beautiful fruit, but not a good bearer.

The cucumber is a most profitable crop. They are easy to gather, and shippers find them more ready of sale than almost any other garden produce. The White Spine is the only variety to be planted here; they do not turn yellow by keeping, or on the vine, and preserve their freshness for a long time.

A few words on gathering and packing. The potato should be harvested by the plow, gathered in sacks to prevent bruising, and preserve them from exposure to the sun, and be spreed for a few days before barrelling in a cool barn, or better yet, upon a brick or tile floor. The summer sun must not shine upon potatoes, if you wish to preserve them. Spread green peas in the shade for a few hours before boxing. They sweat if put immediately in the crates, and are injured in appearance thereby. Beans and tomatoes should also be packed as dry as possible, as all vegetables mildew rapidly.

A. B. ROSE.

Mrs. Calhoun's Letter to the Wife of McFarland.

Strange Confession for a Married Woman.

Mrs. Calhoun, who is a strong minded employee of the New York Tribune, and who says "poor Mr. Calhoun is one of the best men in the world," it is developed in the McFarland trial had a wonderful influence over Mrs. McFarland. Her letters to her have been read in court, and produced a marked sensation. We have only space for three of the shorter ones:

My Dear Child—What can I say to comfort thee? My heart bleeds over thee. Would I could enfold thee forever more. My darling, if it were not for Percy I should take thee away and keep thee, as soon as I go home. I do not suppose Mr. C. would let me keep him. My precious, you must make your decision. It is profanation for you to stay with that man. You shall not. No woman ought to put her womanhood to open shame, as you have been forced to do for years. It is most cruel, most devilish. You cannot work, you cannot advance, you can make certain of no future for yourself and the children while you stay. There is no justice, no reason, no hope in your doing it. My darling, you will leave him scatheless—the world is more generous than we think about these things. Every thoughtful man or woman, will justify you, and you can shake off the shackles, and work with free hands. It is dreadful to have you fight against such odds. I think you could live, yourself and Percy, for what you earn now, and if you can only be free, so that you can improve, your salary will be increased. It is wonderful that you have been able to do anything with your disabilities, and I do think that now you may do so much. O, do leave him, my darling. It is so wrong that you should stay with him.

Friday Evening—My darling, we have just received Mr. R.'s letter. I am so glad that you have left M——. Do not, I beseech you return. Do not let any meekness of mercy possess you. It is happy that the yoke has fallen, no matter what heartbreak come with it. I could be glad that you suffer, if your suffering could keep you away from him. My darling, for whom I would die, do not so wrong your womanhood as to go back. You must not, shall not. When I come back you shall come straight to me and stay. I will come tomorrow if you need me. Write me, my darling, all things. Even if you are distracted, write, it will calm you and help you. All my heart flows to you. I would help you, guard you, heal you, if I could. My darling, you cannot be misunderstood. I, a proud woman, tell you that only by leaving him can you justify yourself to yourself—and to the world of noble people. My darling, my money and purse and roof are yours forever; you will not hesitate to come to me, for you love me. This is a poor note. I have to scrawl in pencil what I have not had time to say in ink—to-morrow, when, if you're better, I shall write you a better letter. All my heart is yours. Let Mr. R. help you. He is good and strong. Stay where you are till I come. Then come to me, my darling. I love you.

Thine ever, LU.

77 Clinton Place, Thursday 27th.

Hurrah, my darling! All my wheels are turning the right way, and the world moves. Mr. Stuart has just gone. He did answer your second letter at length. Booth was with him when it reached him, and he read it to that divine man, who feels interested in you. I quote the words of the potentate, and if you will play such parts as the Queen in Hamlet, and others, at first, you can have an engagement with the miracle here!! this winter!!! under an assumed name!!!! Or if you don't want to do that, Mr. Stuart will give you an engagement in the country; but I advise here first by all means.

My darling, I could not be happier if I had discovered a gold mine. Maybe we have. Think of playing with Booth! I believe I should die of that rose in aromatic pain if such a privilege were mine. My dear, this is such a good omen. Youth and hope and beauty, as poor Miss Flite used to say, but there is no sad moral in this case. I hope this will reach you in Boston, it will comfort you so much; but if it does not, it will be only because you will be here where I can tell you all the wire-pulling I have done. I am really good for something I believe after all, and when you succeed I shall felicitate myself as none other.

I pray you pardon this incoherent scrawl. I am so delighted I know not how to be consecutive. In all my prayers hereafter I shall name Mr. Stuart by name. Nobody could be kinder than he, and he wants you to come and see him as soon as you are here. "Such larks, Pip," and Booth! he has talked about you, and himself proposed to bring you out! See Naples and then die.

I must stop to catch the mail.

My darling: I put two loving arms about you and give you the heartiest and hopefullest blessing you ever had in your life. Come at once. If you should come on Saturday, and don't have time to come and see me, go to church—Mr. Frothingham's, Fortieth street, near Sixth avenue—on Sunday morning, and sit with me, pew 89, and we will talk it all over afterwards.

Ever devotedly, LU.

A Southern Monster.

The Days of the Saurians Returned.

The Savannah papers publish a curious account of a remarkable monster lately seen in the Savannah river, near Fort Pulaski. The Savannah Advertiser says:

"Our informant, with his negro men was pulling quietly along the shore, when the slight built craft was suddenly and without any premonitory sign lifted up, as by some immense roller, throwing the crew out of their seats and completely scaring the life out of them. The shock was so sudden that danger existed for a second of the boat turning over, but luckily it righted again and sank back into the water, which foamed like breakers. 'But,' says the hero of the adventure, 'I did not heed the danger around me in this respect, nor the grovelling fear of the men with me, for I could not, if life was at stake, have taken my eyes away from the hideous creature that had caused all the commotion and was making its way lazily out of the river into the long rushes on the bank. Never before had I anticipated such a monstrosity, nor do I ever wish to see another.' A creature almost indescribable, though its general appearance is fixed my mind's eye too indelibly for pleasant afterthought. The beast, fish or reptile, whatever species of God's creation it might be classed under, was of a tawny greenish color, growing more definite towards the head. The body of the creature was seal-shaped, apparently twenty feet and as thick as the carcass of the largest sized elephant. From this trunk sprung forth the most remarkable feature of the phenomenon, a long, curvek, swanlike neck, large enough apparently to have taken a man in whole, terminated by a head and jaws similar to that of an immense boa-constrictor, the eyes fishy, yet possessing ferocity enough in their expression to make a man tremble. The back of the beast was deeply ridged, the ridges running from the base of the neck to the extreme end of the tail, and several inches deep. An immense tail, shaped something like an alligator's, and three times longer, so it seemed, than the body, completed the tout ensemble of this wonderful anomaly. The creature navigated by feet, resembling the fore feet of an alligator, and its progress on land was slow, but it soon disappeared. 'With all this combination of the terrible before me,' says our friend, "it was not strange that I trembled."

ANTs.

[From the New England Farmer.]

The following are among the methods of destroying these destructive insects.

Forsyth says, "You may destroy many of them by mixing quick lime with soot, and laying it along their roads, where you see them thickest; but where you can come at their nests, the best way is to put a piece of quick lime into them and pour as much water over the lime as will slake it, the heat of which will destroy them—when you have poured in the water, cover the lime with a turf or a little earth, which will render it more effectual by confining the heat. You may slake the lime with a mixture of urine and soap-suds, which will render it still more effectual."

If the walls of an apartment are washed with a painter's brush, dipped in a solution made of four ounces of corrosive sublimate in two gallons of water, both the ant and red spider will be destroyed.

When you find their nests or other collections of them near home, you may pour hot water on them. When a farmer manures his land, if he uses ashes, lime, or sea-sand, he may be sure of not being annoyed by ants.

An English publication asserts, "Ants that frequent houses and gardens, may be destroyed by taking flour of brimstone half a pound, and potash four ounces; set them in an iron or earthen pan over a fire, till dissolved and united; afterwards beat them to a powder, and infuse a little of this powder in water; and wherever you sprinkle it the ants will die or flee the place."

Likewise, "corrosive sublimate mixed well with sugar, has proved a mortal poison to them, and is the most effectual way of destroying these insects."

Another remedy is as follows:—Make a strong decoction of tobacco and the tender shoots of elder, by pouring boiling water on them; then sprinkle fruit trees infested with ants or other insects, with this decoction, cold, twice a week, for two or three weeks, with a small brush; which will effectually destroy the insects and preserve the fruit and leaves.

To preserve dishes of meat in cupboards, &c., against ants, it has been recommended to take a wine glass well cleaned and place it in your cupboard or safe, upside down, and put the dish or plate which contains your meat, on it. It may be here balanced with the greatest safety, and it is said, will be preserved from ants, provided care is taken that the meat and dish be free from them when placed in that situation.

Ants are unjustly accused of damaging fruit trees, and are incorrectly supposed to be authors of mischief accruing from the depredations of aphides, alias plant lice, alias pucerous, alias vine fretters. The excrements of these last mentioned insects are sweet, and compose one kind of honey dew, called suffasio melita. Ants ramble over trees which are infested with these insects, for the purpose of feeding on this sweet substance, and are mistaken for the cause of honey dew, and the disease of the tree of which honey dew is a sympton. The aphides, too, are often but erroneously supposed to be the young progeny of ants, when in fact there is no affinity between these two species of insects. Still, as ants feed on fruits, it may be expedient to extirpate them by some of the above mentioned methods.

MONUMENT TO GENERAL PENDER.—We invite the attention of the local reader to the article from the Hillsboro Recorder's correspondent, on the subject of a monument to the late General Pender.

We are able to state, positively, that the proposed monument to General Pender will be erected in the fall, and we would particularly call the attention of the Recorder and its correspondent to the fact that an opportunity will be offered the officers and members of General Pender's command to testify their appreciation of this great soldier by contributing to the memorial fund.

The editor of the Recorder we know as one of General Pender's officers, and we would request from him the names and residences of such of his comrades as he may be able to furnish us.

North Carolina sent to the war no greater man than W. D. Pender. No better blood was shed at the altar of our national sacrifice, and North Carolinians will cheerfully do honor to the gallant spirit of him who sleeps in his grave in Calvary church yard.

General Pender was a native of Edgecombe, but he was also a son of North Carolina, and his glory and renown the common property of North Carolinas.—North Carolinian.

SEEING WITHOUT EYES.—It is fully established that somnambulists go wherever they please without hesitation, read and write, and give ample evidence or a power of perception independent of the usual organs of vision. Persons subject to attacks of catalepsy frequently show the same peculiarity. M. Despine, late inspector of the mineral waters of Aix, in Savoy, mentions the following among many other cases: "Not only could our patient hear by means of the palm of her hand, but we have seen her read without the assistance of the eyes, merely with the tips of the fingers, which she passed rapidly over the page that she wished to read. At other times we have seen her select from a parcel of more than thirty letters the one which she was required to pick out; also, write several letters and correct on reading them over again, always with her finger ends, the mistakes she had made; copy one letter word for word, reading it with her left elbow, while she wrote with her right hand. During these proceedings a thick pasteboard completely intercepted any visual ray that might have reached her eyes. The same phenomenon was manifested at the soles of her feet, on the epigastrium, and other parts of the body where a sensation of pain was produced by the mere touch."

Persons who have become blind have also been known to acquire the same powers, and Harriet Martineau tells of an old lady who had been blind from her birth, and yet saw in her sleep, and in her waking state described the color of the clothing of the individuals correctly.

In these cases no doubt perception is, as usual, in the brain; but either all the nerves of the surface have the powor of conveying the impressions of light to that organ or some special parts of the body, as the ends of the fingers, the occiput, or the epigastrium, assume the office of the eyes.

Dr. Clark, in Hours at Home.

A WORD FOR THE CONFEDERATE DEED.—This surely is not right. So careless have we been of the Confederate dead buried at Gettysburg that there is a wide-spread feeling in the South, which has found expression in a mournful cry, that her dead ought to be brought back to less inhospitable soil. Now, that the South should wish to have within her bosom the ashes of those who died for her is perfectly just. This even they who will not give those dead the credit of patriotic motives can hardly deny. But it is discreditable to the North that we should wreak our vengeance on those who have expiated their "fault" or "mistake" or "crime" by their deaths. And what is it but wreaking vengeance on corpses, when those in charge of the Gettysburg cemetery say that "their charter only provides for the interment of the remains of those who died in the defence of the Union." But no civilized nation would hesitate to do honor to its gallant enemies—no, no; not even the Cossack. The ladies of the South, the soldiers of the South—among them their chief—are gathering their mites to bring these ashes of their dead home. It will be a lasting disgrace if we do not render it unnecessary.—New York World.

SAVED FROM A LIFE OF INFAMY.—On Tuesday night officer Crosby was attracted by the verdant conduct of a young girl at the Varieties. She was gaily dressed, but she acted in such a manner that the officer, thinking something wrong, took her out, and began to question her. She proved to be a young girl named Elizabeth Wilson, who had arrived that afternoon from Elizabeth City, N. C., and was taken to a house of ill-fame on Church street under the pretence of its being a boarding-house. She had been sent by a brother in North Carolina to a brother in Wilmington. On the steamer she met with a young man who made himself very pleasant to her; and when the steamer arrived here he took her to the boarding-house, where he told her she could see all the "Pretties" in town. The landlady treated her very kindly, put nice clothes on her, frizzled her hair in such an odd fashion, and then "sent her to see de folks at de play." She is very unsophisticated, and does not appear to realize her position, thinking it all a matter of course, saying "that no such nice people would hurt folks." The poor, confiding creature was taken charge of by the Mayor, and will be sent to Wilmington as soon as her brother in Elizabeth City can be heard from.—Norfolk Journal.

A WIFE IN DISTRESS.—'Pray, tell me my dear what is the cause of those tears?'

'Oh such a disgrace!'

'What is it, my dear, don't keep me in suspense!'

'Oh I have opened one of your letters, supposing it to be addressed to myself. Certainly it looks more like Mrs. than Mr.'

'Is that all? what harm can there be in a wife opening her husband's letters.'

'No harm in the thing itself, the contents is such a disgrace!'

'Who has dared to write me a letter unfit to be read by my wife?'

'Oh, no, it was couched in the most chaste and beautiful language. But the contents! the contents!

Here the wife buried her face in her handkerchief and commenced sobbing aloud, while her husband eagerly took up the letter and commenced reading the epistle that had nearly broken his wife's heart. It was a bill from the printer for 3 years subscription.

Hillsborough Recorder.

WEDNESDAY,....APRIL 27, 1870.

☞ The Junior Editor announced the Senior "on the war path," last week, and the Senior has now to chronicle the Junior out and gone, in seach of grub.

☞ Convicts sentenced to the Penitentiary in this State for a term less than four years, will not be received.

☞ We ask the attention of the people of Caswell to the address of our old friend Col. John E. Wooding. It has the ring of the right metal.

☞ The U. S. troops sent to Alamance county to play marbles with ku klux, have been ordered to Dacotah to catch wild Indians. They'll probably catch more Indians than ku klux.

GOOD!—The Mount Airy News suggests in order to avoid the trouble of a Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress in that district, that all hands club in and run brother Haines, Editor of the Old North State.

☞ A correspondent wants to know of the senior Editor what took him to the poor house in Caswell during Court week. Well, 'ole fel,' it might have been simply to see if it was any 'poorer' than the house we roo t in, or it might have been to see some of your kin! How do you feel, now? Eh?

GOV. VANCE.

ZEB.—"our ZEB."—has been suggested in the columns of the Charlotte Democrat for the State Senate from Mecklenburg county. The Democrat endorses the nomination; because, as it says, Governor VANCE is no vindictive man, and will do justice to all classes and colors. The Democrat is right.

☞ The probability is the XV Amendment will have its constitutionality decided on by the Supreme Court: The County Clerks of California refused to register negroes as electors, and now await the decision of the State authorities; should this be adverse the matter goes up to the S. Court of the U. S., unless Congress reconstructs California, which it will probably do.

Party Issues—What are they?

The issues that drew the line of distinction between existing parties—we may say which created existing parties—are no longer issues. They have been settled, and settled contrary to our wishes, but the reconstruction measures having become part of the organic law, we acquiesce and accept the situation in good faith. It would be nonsense not to do it, and about as wise to attempt to dart straws against the moon or to set the world on fire with the tail end of a lightning bug.

The only issues that we can now see are between men seeking to put honest and competent men in office, and persons who seek to retain in power men totally unfit to be trusted with the offices they hold—we call such radicals. We think the best interest of the State demands the removal of all men who, in the exercise of office pander to their own sordid lusts in detriment to the public weal. This the most of Republican Radicals have done. They have been weighed in the scales and found deficient honesty, and minus in competency. Let all such be thrown over board, and let honest and competent men be substituted. This done, what then? Nous verrons.

But apart from the moral issue of honesty against dishonesty—competency against incompetency—there is a local political issue we desire to press in the approaching campaign, and that is the expediency or policy, or both, of calling a State Convention to prune our late Constitution.—We desire less State officers and reduced salaries. We want the people to put the existing costly judicial system in a carpet bag and let Senator Abbott carry it back to N. York and lock it up in Sing Sing. We want to return to our old time-honored judicial system, bequeathed us by such illustrious men as Macon, Gaston, Badger, Ruffin, Edwards, Yancey, Morehead and others. It takes too much money to run this government. The people can't stand it—the "masheen" will grind them to powder.

SWIFT JUSTICE.—John Brennan, a Philadelphia footpad, assaulted an old gentleman named Marsh Tuesday morning about 3 o'clock at the corner of Prince and Greene streets, New York, beat him severely, and stole his watch. Brennan was captured immediately and on Wednesday he was sentenced by Judge Bedford to fifteen years and six months in the State prison. He is probably picking tock already at Sing-Sing, regretting his strange misapprehension of the ways of New York justice. When such a sentence as that is sprung on a man within thirty-six hours it is apt to have a salutary effect on his "pals," who literally know not what a day may bring forth.

Reminiscences of Gen. W. D. Pender.

BY AN OLD SOLDIER.

God put all the metal of a good soldier in the make up of General Pender. He was decidedly the best disciplinarian Lee had in his army. The first command of Gen. Pender in the Confederate army was as Colonel of the third N. C. Regiment, afterward the thirteenth. He assumed command at Garysburg in May 1861. A good many companies of this regiment were composed of the flower-de-luce of the State. And in a great many cases the Captains and Lieutenants of companies were inferior in point of position as likewise intelligence to the men in ranks. It seemed very hard then that these men should have not been allowed to go to their officer's tents unless on business and then to take off their hats. Yet it was so. They cursed him; whispered in their tents against him; threatened to kill him in the very first fight. But bah! men are like cattle; they lick the hand that smites them, if it be a just one. Gen. Pender's was. And when he left the regiment there was hardly a dry eye in ranks.

Among the first things Pender did was to learn the names of the officers and every man in his regiment. This sounds strange; that he should know every man in a command of twelve hundred! but he did, and that too in a very few weeks after he took charge. To give some idea of the remarkably dilligent observation of the man we will cite

AN INCIDENT.

It was at BENS CHURCH, Va., Colonel Pender's regiment was camped in the summer of '61. A man of company F. Capt. Clemens' company from Davie county, had been to Smithfield in the morning and had just got back in time for batallion drill in the evening. He returned slightly intoxicated but not so much so that the orderly sergeant kept him from drill. That evening after drill Col. Pender sent for Capt. Clemens and told him he had noticed that ——— of his company—calling him by name—was intoxicated while on drill that he didn't want it to happen again. The old captain bit his lip—he didn't like Pender—and vowed inwardly he would catch Pender in a lie. He went straight to his orderly sergeant and asked him about the man. The sergeant told him it was the truth; the man had been to Smithfield and did come back a little under the influence of liquor but not enough so—as he thought—for any one to discover it. The man was noticed by Pender and his Captain had not noticed it himself!

IT SEEMED SO CRUEL.

It was at Camp Ruffin—Bens Church—that Colonel Pender for the nonce appeared to the men to be a hard hearted tyrant. He had just received orders to "be ready to move at a moment's warning," and was advised that he would have use for every man he had, when a young man of company D. —from Leasburg—poor fellow, now dead; and a more accomplished or amiable young man didn't live in Caswell county—received a letter from home telling him his father was dying. He carried the letter to Colonel Pender and asked him for a furlough. Pender told him:—"You can do your father no good now—if dying when this letter was written. I have orders to keep every man in camp. I cannot give you a furlough." This caused an outbreak of indignation as it was talked about amongst the men. But listen! a short while afterward Pender received a letter from home announcing the sudden illness of his child —expected to die—and wanted him to come home. He didn't go!

AS BRIGADIER.

In 1862 Col. Pender was made a Brigadier General. As a Brigade General he was positive about the following:

Never to fail attend to the enforcement of the most trivial order even in six months after it had been issued—unless it was countermanded.

That the Field Officer should report to him after every picket duty.

That no officer of any regiment in his Brigade should shelter himself behind a tree or anything else—in a charge or a square stand up fight.

Never to accept an invitation to make his headquarters at any private dwelling house. So afraid he was of being put under obligation.

To see that his men were well clothed, well fed, well camped, well marched, and well fought.

BACK IN THE SADDLE.

It was at Fredericksburg that Gen. Pender was badly wounded in the arm. He turned over the command of his Brigade to Col. A. M. Scales, and rode to the rear. (He was always mounted in a fight.) Scales took charge. The fight was raging furiously. Not long afterward a clear measured voice rang above the din of battle: "Colonel Scales, you can go back to your regiment, I will take command now." It was Pender. His arm in a sling.

GENEROUS AS BRAVE.

We think it was in the fall of 1862 Pender was made Major General. At Gettysburg moving his division against the heights with bayonets pointed like a hedge of bristling spikes General Pender was shot down —shot in the thigh. He was placed in an ambulance and started immediately towards Staunton. He gave all his money to John T. Brocks, of Milton, one of his couriers who accompanied him—for him to buy provisions for the party and food for his horse —how he loved a horse! At Staunton when Broocks was about to leave him and handed him back the money—several hundred dollars—"No," said he—"keep it, yourself. You have more use for it than I have." But Broocks wouldn't have it; told him he didn't need it. In a few days Gen. Pender was dead. Dead just before fresh honors budded on him; for he would have been made Lieut. General. Raise the white marble over him; it can't be too white for Pender!

THE HON. JACOB THOMPSON

Interviewed—Sad misfortune to Dr. Willis M. Lea, formerly of Caswell.

(From our special Tennessee correspondent.)

On a visit to Memphis a short time ago, learning that Hon. Jacob Thompson was living there I called upon him and had a most pleasant conversation with him of some two hours in length. I found him cheerful and hopeful. He looked remarkably well, though the silvering of his hair and beard showed the marks of age as well as care. He gave me a brief sketch of his travels over the world which was very interesting. He said that he was treated everywhere with courtesy and kindness. Mr. Thompson is not engaged in any business, nor does he propose to enter into any kind of business, as he says he wants quiet and rest the remainder of his life. He may however write at some future time a history of his connection with the Confederacy in justice to himself and friends, and for the truth of history.

A SAD MISHAP TO DR. LEA.

On the fourth of April about one o'clock the splendid mansion of Dr. Willis M. Lea, near Holly Springs, (Miss.) costing upwards of ten thousand dollars was accidentally destroyed by fire. Very little was saved. The loss was between fifteen and twenty thousand dollars. Dr. Lea was in Holly Springs at the time and in attempting to go home his horse was frightened near his burning house, ran away, and threw him out, breaking three ribs, spraining his ankle and foot, and rendering him speechless for awhile. He is now slowly mending. More anon.

Public Meeting.

On Saturday the 23rd April 1870, in pursuance of previous notice, the citizens of Chapel Hill Township assembled at the Township house.

On motion of Jones Watson, Esq., Dr. Morgan Clap was called to the chair, and Andrew Mickle Esq., appointed secretary.

Mr. Mickle explained the object of the meeting, and after a few remarks of other persons relative thereto, On motion of Col. Wm. L. Saunders, a committee of one from each school district in the Township, was appointed to prepare business for the meeting. The committee composed of the following named gentlemen, Messrs. Wm. L. Saunders, J. P. Cole, Wm. H Burch, John W. Gattis, Mathew McCauley, sen'r, and E. D. Hendon.

After having retired for consultation, the committee returned and reported the following resolutions.

1st. That we deem it inexpedient to express any preference of the people of this Township, in regard to the selection of candidates for any particular office.

2nd. That we do hereby pledge ourselves to support the regular nominees of the county convention.

3rd. That three delegates for each school district in the Township be appointed by the people thereof respectively, to represent us in the county Convention, and the Chairman of this meeting certify their appointment to the county Convention.

4th. That in order to secure the selection of candidates who are really the choice of the people of the county, our delegates are hereby instructed to ask that no man be declared to have received the nomination, unless he shall have received two thirds of all the votes of the county Convention.

5th. That we heartily approve and endorse the principles and platform laid down in the address recently published by the Conservative members of the Legislature.

6th. That the Chairman of this meeting appoint an Executive Committee to consist of one person from each school district of the Township.

The resolutions were then put to the meeting separately, and unaimously adopted.

It appearing that delegates to the county convention had been already appointed by the people in various school districts, the following reports of names of delegates were made and confirmed.

Elmn Grove—J. P. Cole, Jas. Bishop and James Watson.

Orange Church—S. J. Claytor, Wm. Strain and Wm. H. Burch.

Cool Spring—Wm. J. Kirkland Wm. C. Claytor and Gilbert Craig.

Beth Car—J. W. Gattis, Manly Lloyd and J. J. Hogan.

Mt. Carmel—M. J. W. McCauley, Sidney Tilly and Mathew McCauley, sen.

Chapel Hill—W. J. Newton, J. W. Carr and Wm. S. Saunders.

On motion the Hillsboro Recorder and the Raleigh Sentinel, were requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting.

M. CLAP, Ch'r.

A. MICKLE, Sec'y.

For the Hillsboro Recorder.

To Livingston Brown, Esq.—

SIR:—Many voters in this section of Caswell county desire to send you to the Senate of the next Legislature as their representative, and adopt this method of soliciting you to become a candidate.

Respectfully,

PROSPECT HILL.

GEN. S. D. RAMSEUR.

The Southern Home, complimenting the village of Lincolnton for turning out two Major Generals in the Confederate Army (Hoke and Ramseur,) says a chaste and beautiful monument has been erected to the memory of the latter by his brother-in-law—David Schenck—which is the art of James Tiddy, of Charlotte, a gallant soldier who lost a foot at Gettysburg. On one side of the monument is the inscription

Malvern Hill,
Seven Pines,
Chancellorsville,
Mine Run,
Wilderness,
Spottsylvania,
Richmond,
Lynchburg,
Kernstown,
Winchester,
Cedar Run,

MAJ. GEN. STEPHEN DODSON RAMSEUR,
Born May 31st, 1837,
Mortally wounded at the battle of
Cedar Creek on the 19th
October, and
Died on the 20th October, 1864.

On the opposite side is the simple and touching sentence: "A good soldier of Jesus Christ."

MR. VERNON.

☞ The gentlemanly Telegraph Operator at Greensborough on the Danville line will please accept our thanks for favors.

Got more than he Wanted for his Tobacco.

While attending Person Court we met up with our friend Mr. FRANK DAY, of that county, who seemed to be in such fine spirits that we felt emboldened to ask him the cause: He informed us that he had just sold his Tobacco in the Milton Market, and that the article went so far beyond the price he had fixed on it, he had to tell the bidders to "stop! he didn't want any more for it!" There is no joke about it, Mr. D. really refused to take any more, remarking that they had already given him more than he wanted. We allude to the incident as highly creditable to the Milton market, and will also remark that a number of the planters informed us at this Court that they tried the Milton market, all of whom were highly pleased.

Musical Notes.

A musical soiree was given last Friday night at the school of the Misses NASH and Miss KOLLOCK. As usual it was a success. Under the admirable generalat of Professor LAMM many grace floria melodies were rendered by the young ladies in the most pleasing and tasteful style. The agreeable attitude of each young artiste, as well as the unreserved ease and abandon at the piano even in the most difficult operas, from GOTTSCHALK, ABT, PRUDENT and KETTERER, gave evidence of the most skilful and perfect training we have ever seen at any female school in the South. And we have attended a few concerts—so-called—in our life. PROF. LAMM is no humbug. We have heard Ritter—the celebrated pianist with Carlotta Patti—and he is fully equal to him. Professor LAMM was educated under A. Marmontel, Professor au conservatoire de Paris.

Smoke-house Robbery.

A couple of Virginia darkies—bright "pertikler" stars of de "loil league"—being moved by the yawning of rusty stomachs for grease, concluded last Saturday night a week ago to come over into Person county near Woodsdale, and perpetrate a raid on some unoffending smoke-house. The first attack they made was repulsed by a ferocious dog that came near bringing the two wards of the Nation to grief. But they went on to Col. J. H. Clay's where they were more fortunate, and robbed him of 15 pieces of bacon. It seems that "de hollow of de foot made a hole in de ground" and the Colonel tracked up the rogues, who fell back upon their Virginia dignity as security from arrest or search by Carolinians. The Colonel, however, assisted by Sheriff Pointer, took the "nigs" in charge and being promised 'freedom' if they would disgorge the bacon, they forked it over. One fellow had taken up the rocks in his kitchen hearth and making a hole stowed his "sheer" (as Gen. Dockery used to say,) of the bacon in it and then replaced the hearth rocks so mechanically that no one would observe that they had ever been disturbed. The other negro had his half tied up in a bag and sunk in deep water.

Bingham's Boys.

The boys at the Bingham School nine miles from here—are engaged in a good work. They are getting up Sunday schools. A young student named McDaniel is at the head of this enterprise. This young man lives ten miles below Fayetteville, when he is at home. He has a Sunday school at Green Springs in this county, and has also established a prayer meeting at Lebanon. McDaniel is a number one singer and is engaged in learning the country children to sing as well as to read and write. On with your work boys!—God will bless you for it.

Agricultural.

The farmers about the NEW HOPE section have an agricultural society. Some fourteen or fifteen of the best farmers thereabouts have already become members. One of the regulations of this society is to the point, decidedly. It has a bearing to encourage honest emulation among the planters. For instance:—Wm. S. Kirkland and Chas. J. Johnson—both good farmers and members of the society—have laid out an acre of land in corn, and are running against each other this year to see which will beat.

MILTON.

Another Warehouse Opened—Richmond in the field—Tobacco rushing in—Every body delighted with the Sales. Preparations for Manufacturing—the Old Town shaking off her Lethargy, &c.

We made a business visit to Milton, N. C., last week, and were somewhat surprised at the business progress of the town. Another Tobacco Warehouse had just been opened on a large and more accommodating scale, by Messrs. W. B. Ellison, S. A. Ellison, Wm. R. Morris, (said to be one of the largest buyers of Tobacco in Richmond, and a gentleman of ample means.) & Wm. L. Salmon, all of Richmond, and noted Tobacconists. These men command unlimited capital—are heavy buyers and do not stand on trifles when Tobacco they want is thrown in market.—The fine prices paid in this market (visited as it is by other buyers from abroad,) caused such a rushing of the weed into the Milton market that one Warehouse could not furnish adequate accommodation, and the above gentlemen have had that large and capacious building at the foot of Liberty street and known as "Liberty Warehouse," elegantly fitted up and it now offers the amplest accommodation to Planters. Wagons unload under the roof of the building, and planters can camp in the Warehouse where they are sheltered from bad weather and protected from outside annoyances. Arrangements are making to unload half a dozen wagons at one time, thus relieving planters of impatience in waiting to be unloaded, and we can assure those who take their Tobacco there that they will receive every attention and pocket as much cash for their Tobacco as they would do in any other market.

Tobacco was rolling in freely and prices ruled high as to grades. There were no fancy wrappers on market, when we were present, but Mr. John W. McCain had a large lot of red (but coarse) Tobacco that brought $51.50 per cwt. It was bought by Messrs. S. A. Ellison & Co.

Messrs. Wm. F. Smith & Co. are going into the manufacturing business on a large basis and several other establishments are in contemplation. Messrs. W. B. Ellison, brother & Co. and one or two other firms, are prizing extensively and keep the numerous Batteaus on Dan River running daily to Barksdale's. The Messrs. Ellison have a Coopering shop attached which turns out Fourteen hogsheads per day, all of which are immediately prized and shipped. The enterprizing proprietors of Liberty Warehouse speak of putting a Steamer on the Dan, and if Mr. W. B. Ellison has made up his mind to this effect it will be done, for he is one of the most thorough go-ahead men of the age, and never fails to accomplish his resolves.

Yes, the old town is arousing from her Rip Van Winkle slumbers. And when we tell the Planters of Orange, Granville, Person, Caswell and Alamance that they can do as well with their Tobacco in the Milton Market as any other, they may believe what we say. Indeed a manufacturer in Orange who lately visited the different markets, tells us that common grades, in his opinion, sell higher in Milton than elsewhere.

In calling the attention of North Carolina planters to a North Carolina market we do not seek to disparage in the least the markets outside of the State. We insist, however, on our planters giving their own home market a fair trial, and we point them to "Liberty Warehouse" and invite a perusal of its Advertisement which may be found in another column.

Carl Johan Uddman.

A friend has shown us a life picture of CARL JOHAN UDDMAN, the finest basso in Sweden, and a great favorite with the royal family. He is a comic singer and weighs just six hundred pounds. CARL UDDMAN is said to be an enormous gourmand; eating, at one time, at a dinner party in Sweden, the whole of a fried goose. But a jolly singer is Carl. One of his best renditions is "the hog standing at the gate and will come in." In rendering this—his master piece—he inserts a hairpin from his mouth into his nostrils, so as to come the grunt of the hog. By all means Carl Uddman ought to come to America. We are a funny people over here.

DRUNKARD'S INFIRMARY.

Dr. J. J. THAXTON, of Person, (whose address is Milton, N. C.,) has in contemplation renting the Barracks at this place and opening a Drunkard's Infirmary. We hear that the Doctor (who is a regular M. D.) continues to perform miracles in curing drunkards and old topers. If we knew Capt. PIKE's locality we would advise him—to put a little of the Doctor's medicine in his "Castalian Fount." But let PIKE rip, in his Ministerial robes. Don't, for goodness sake, forget the Doctor's address, and continue to kill us with bothering letters of inquiry—if you do, we'll runaway—and hide!

ALL IN THE FAMILY.—In third Revenue district, Kentucky, the collector has his brother as gauger, a cousin for assessor, and the latter has in office his father, uncle, son, father-in-law and two brothers. The positions of assistant assessors, clerks, gaugers, &c., are all filled by their kindred.

President Grant set the example of nepotism, and the Secretary of the Treasury having interferred with this little "family affair" by ordering a change, is treading on Gen. Grant's toes.

ENCOURAGE HOME MANUFACTURES.—Attention is called to the advertisement of Mr. C. S. Cooley, dealer in Cabinet Furniture, &c. He has a splendid stock—encourage him by buying of him. He is a young man worthy of your custom, and one whose circumstances have been reduced by the torch of the incendiary.

A Ghost Story.

Founded on fact, as witnessed by an old sea captain, of Norfolk.

The following we have from a gentleman friend, now living in Richmond, who got it from the mouth of an old sea captain in Norfolk—whose name we have, but withhold, for reason of having no permission to publish it. The old captain certifies to its really happening, and is still in a fog over the inexplicable mystery that attaches about it. We give the story as near as possible in his own words as told us:

We had anchored off shore. A hull of an old wreck of a ship lay off in sight. One morning a man of mine was reported missing. I thought he had deserted; and so sent ashore after him;—but to no purpose. About the middle of the next night—it was moonlight—the larboard watch reported that he saw the figure of a man standing on the hull of this old ship, and that after looking at it some time, it looked like it had dropped suddenly down into the hole of the ship. I ordered a life boat to be manned and sent over a squad of men to make search. They went; but there wasn't a man bold enough among them to go down into the hatchway of the old wreck. I didn't think any more of the thing; supposing the apparition to have been nothing else than the disordered imaginings of an excited mind. But the next night a watch reported to me the same thing. And this time many of the men had looked at it and all of them positively averred that it had dropped suddenly down into the hole of that old wreck. I ordered my first mate to pick some of the boldest of the crew and to go and explore that hold. They boarded the old hull, but it was some minutes before a man could be found daring enough to go down the hatchway. At last, one fellow volunteered and down he went. And there, in the bottom of the hole, his skull split open, dead,—laid my missing man! How it happened, I don't know; never will. He may have gone there to hide; may-be to hunt for treasure. But what it was they saw, whether flesh, fish, or devil,—will ever remain a mystery to me as long as I live upon earth.

More Lynching.

Yancey Chance, a white man residing near Milton, N. C., was recently most cruelly whipped by persons in disguise—all about his unfaithful wife from whom he had separated. Will public opinion never frown down these devilish outrages? Is the law to be outraged with impunity? Is the person or property of any man or woman safe while outrages like this are perpetrated? Public opinion alone can put them down—it's sheer nonsense to think about "troops" doing any good. This man Chance may be a bad chance—may have a bad character, and all that, but the Law—the Law—the Law—should be respected and this humble man is as much entitled to its protection as President Grant. Had he basked in the sunshine of wealth who believes he would have been touched? It is time the good sense of the people and their reverence for law and good order had put a stop to this hanging and whipping business? "Let us have peace!"

GREAT J-E-R-U-S-A-L-E-M!!!!! The Wil. Post is engaged in publishing T. L. Clingman's address in broken doses. He's a game man who reads it! and deserves a Generalship if he wern't an 'old line whig!'

Halifax—Va.

From our own Correspondent.

Last Saturday night, the 16th inst., some one broke open Capt. Smith's mill, in Halifax county, and stole a barrel of flour and a side of bacon. No clue to the thief.

Married in Halifax county, the 5th Inst., Mr. Wm. A. Howard to Miss Mary L. Blacknell.

To the good People of Caswell County—

In exercise of the common privilege I announce myself a candidate for the House of Representatives of the next Legislature.

I am an old citizen of Caswell, known to the people of the county—am identified with them in feeling and interest, with abundant good reason to respect them for their general intelligence and to love them for past kindness and favors to me.

In the universal shipwreck of Southern hopes and fortunes I have been as much a sufferer as most of you, and my anxiety for the restoration of peace and former prosperity is as intense as any other man's can be.

Without any special ties to party I am nevertheless an ardent friend to Republican institutions such as our forefathers established for us, and am ready to make any sacrifice for the interest and honor of my native land.

Peculations in public life are rife; I abhor the peculators and hope for the restoration of honest men to favor and the sway of ancient councils. Brought up under the influence which marked the era of Jackson and Clay, I habitually admire the great and reverence the good, and my hopes for the future welfare of my country rest upon the talent and virtue of a class of men now almost secluded from office.

Should I be chosen by you as one of your representatives, I shall carry these feelings and sentiments into the Legislative assembly, and shall aim to make them manifest in all my acts. The glorious old paths in which our illustrious statesmen of the past were accustomed to walk, I will search for with diligence and pursue with unfaltering firmness and admiration. Whatever influences may assail me I will endeavor to be true to the incorrupted laboring class and the unaspiring yeomanry, though demagogues may denounce me and all parties revile me.

I am now advanced in years and for the first time have launched upon the troubled sea of politics. My object is not one of ambition, for I am too old for that. It is not one of pecuniary gain, for the place I seek offers no such temptation. My sole aim is to render service to a people who have a stronger claim on me than any other people, and whose confidence and respect I deem the best inheritance I can leave my children. Respectfully

J. E. WOODING.

POETICAL.

"Now I lay me."

"Now I lay—repeat it, darling:"
"Lay me," lisped the tiny lips
Of my daughter, kneeling, bending,
O'er her folded finger-tips.

"Down to sleep"—"To sleep," she murmured,
And the curly head dropped low;
"I pray the Lord," I gently added;
"You can say it all, I know."

"Pray the Lord," the words came faintly;
Fainter still, "My soul to keep;"
"Then the tired head fairly nodded,
And the child was fast asleep.

But the dewy eyes half opened
When I clasped her to my breast,
And the dear voice softly whispered,
"Mamma, God knows all the rest."

Spice.

When thou receivest a kindness, remember it; when thou bestowest one, forget it.

The smaller the calibre of the mind, the greater the bore of a perpetually open mouth.

The Newport News puts its announcements of births under the head of "New Music."

A little boy of Hudson, New York, couldn't remember the text exactly, but thought it was "something about a hawk between two pigeons." It was, "Why halt ye between two opinions."

"There are two things which will make us happy in this life, if we attend to them. The first is, never to vex ourselves about what we can't help; and the second never to vex ourselves about what we can help."

A good old Quaker lady, after listening to an extravagant yarn of a shop-keeper as long as her patience would allow her, said to him, "Friend, what a pity it is a sin to lie, when it seems so necessary to thy happiness."

An Irishman called at the office of the Decorah (Iowa) Democrat and asked what they charged a hundred for "cow bills." "Two dollars," was the reply. "Then," said Pat, laying down a ten-cent plaster, "give me five of thim."

A countryman stopped at a telegraph window, where a young lady was receiving dispatches, and, after looking on a moment, called to his companion: "Say, Bill, just you come and see 'em make paper collars! Don't she know her biz, hey, Bill?"

The Greensburg (Indianian) Press says that a gay Greensburger, when he goes to see his girl, a little west of that town, carries his fine boots under his arm until he reaches the gate, when he doffs his stogas and marches into her presence as fresh and clean as a new-blown pumpkin blossom."

"Tickets, sir," said a railroad conductor, passing through one of the trains the other day, to a passenger. "My face is my ticket," replied the other, a little vexed. "Indeed," said the conductor, rolling back his wristbands and displaying a most powerful bunch of fives; "well, my orders are to punch all tickets passing over this road."

An elderly gentleman, returning home one Sunday night from church, began to extol the merits of the sermon to his son. Said he: "Jack, I have heard one of the most delightful sermons ever delivered before a Christian society. It carried me to the gate of heaven." "Why didn't you dodge in?" replied jack; "you will never have another such chance."

The first line of a hymn given out at a prayer meeting so excited the curiosity of a little girl that on returning home she asked for an explanation; the line, as she heard it, was:

"Mike Rimes a bird and long has been."

Patient ingenuity and a hymn-book solved the mystery. The original was:

"My crimes a burden long have been."

A lady who, through the autumn of life, had not lost all dreams of its spring, said to Jerrold: "I cannot imagine what makes my hair turn gray. I sometimes fancy it must be the essence of rosemary with which my maid is in the habit of brushing it. What do you think?" "I should be afraid, madame," replied the distinguished dramatist, dryly, "that it is the essence of thyme."

There haint been a bug made yet in vain, nor one that want a good job. There is ever lots of human men loafing about blacksmith-shops and cider mills all over the country that don't seem to be necessary for anything but to beg plug tobacco, and sware and steal watermelons, but you let the kolery break out once, and then you will see the wisdom of having jist sich men laying around; they help count.—Josh Billings.

A little five-year old boy was being instructed in morals by his mother. The old lady told him that all such terms as "By golly," "By jingo," "By thunder," &c, were only minced oaths, and but little better than other profanity. In fact, she said, she could tell a profane oath by the prefix of "by—all such were oaths. "Well, then, mother," said the little hopeful, "there's a big oath in the newspapers—"by telegraph!" The old lady gave it up, and the boy is bewildered on morals.

combines great power, sweetness and fine singularity, as well as great purity of intonation, and evenness throughout the entire scale. Their is pliant and elastic, and entirely free from the stiffness found in so many Pianos. In WORKMANSHIP
they are unexcelled, using none but the very best seasoned material, the large capital employed in our business enabling us to keep continually an immense stock of lumber, &c. on hand.
All our Square Pianos have our New Improved Overstrung scale and the Agraffe Treble.
We would call special attention to our late improvements in GRAND PIANOS and SQUARE GRANDS, Patented Aug. 14, 1866, which bring the Piano nearer perfection than has yet been attained. Every Piano fully Warranted for 5 years.

PLANTATION BITTERS.
This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.
Wherever it is introduced it becomes a standard article—a medicinal staple. It is to-day the best and purest tonic, and the most popular medicine in the civilized world—be sure and get the genuine. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Country Stores.
